Hole Info

Summary

You select some geometry that represents a hole, and the dialog then reports the hole's diameter. You can select either a circular edge, an elliptical edge, or a cylindrical face.

On solid bodies, selecting faces is usually easier. The option to select edges is mostly useful for sheet bodies (where the holes might not have any cylindrical faces).

User Interface

The user interface is created using a BlockForm: